20 PER CENT FARE BOOST ASKED BY PEERLESS BUSES

Township bus riders can expect to pay more if the State Public Utilities Commission grants a 20-per cent fare increase requested last week by Peerless Stages.

The proposed boost is under consideration by the PUC.

Peerless President Harry D. Gaeta explained from Oakland that Peerless has not raised fares since November, 1950, despite increases in wages and operating costs.

In May, however, AFL bus drivers won a 4.6 per cent raise. This goes up to 9 per cent in 1953 and 18 per cent in 1954, Gaeta said. In addition, such items as public-liability insurance have risen as much as 35 per cent this year alone, he said.

"We need the extra fare to guarantee our customers adequate transportation," Gaeta explained.

A 20-percent hike would mean the $1.10 fare now in effect between Oakland and San Jose would rise to $1.31. The Niles-San Jose fare, now 63 cents, would go up to 76 cents, while the 69-cent Niles-Oakland fare would become 83 cents.

No objectors appeared at last Friday's PUC meeting.

IRVINGTON ASKED TO BROADEN FLOOD CURB INTEREST

Grass-roots backing for flood control around Irvington this week was recommended as the next step by the chairman of the local flood-curbs committee.

Jack Prouty told the Irvington Chamber of Commerce he wants members to solicit support by taking petitions to every possible resident.

"That way, it won't seem as though it's just a few fellows at the Chamber talking," Prouty stressed. "It'll be a real community project with everybody taking part."

Prouty also reported his committee had:

1. Heard from the Alameda County Flood Control District, through Engineer James F. Vivrette, that the agency is working on boundaries for a proposed control zone, from PG&E Road south

2. Asked the State to enlarge the culvert leading the town creek under the San Jose Highway. This he said will take pressure off the pipe and keep water from backing up into the town as it did last January.

Actual cleaning and widening of the creek probably can be done this summer with a minimum of outlay—probably by existing public agencies, Prouty added.

TRAILER COURT DENIED

Bank for Newark Awaits State, Federal Go-Ahead

A chain bank this week offered to establish a branch bank in Newark.

The Central Valley Bank of California, with headquarters in Richmond, on Monday filed application to place its twelfth outlet in the local community.

The announcement, made by Charles P. Partridge, president of the Central Valley Bank, climaxed several months' activity by the Newark Chamber of Commerce which feels the town needs its own financial facilities.

However, both Partridge and Vice-President Jack R. Greer cautioned the State Banking Department and Federal Reserve authorities must approve the application before Newark's long-sought bank becomes a reality.

The Newark Chamber's banking committee, headed by Paul Gygax, had previously applied for permission to establish a bank, but withdrew when Central Valley offered its services.

Greer said he and his aides have been conducting a searching survey for more than a week to determine whether opening an office locally would be justified. This week Greer declared:

"Newark's rapid industrial, agricultural and residential growth, combined with a complete lack of banking facilities, has created a definite hardship for residents. We are sold on Newark and think it will be a fine place for our type of banking."

State and Federal banking officials will begin independent surveys within a few days to determine necessity for a branch in Newark, Greer said. He added they probably will query homeowners and businessmen whose pledges of support enabled Gygax' committee to interest Central Valley in the town.

Greer stressed that the survey's findings will bear heavily on the State and Federal decisions.

Said President Partridge in an interview with The Register:

"We don't know what the outcome of the State and Federal survey may be, but as far as we are concerned, we are sold on Newark and Newark's future."

MARKS NAMED NEW COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN DIRECTOR

Maurice B. Marks, Mission San Jose, this week accepted the position of campaign manager for Washington Township Community Chest.

Acting President Allen G. Norris announced Marks' acceptance this week, following his nomination at a meeting of the nominating committee last Monday evening. Headed by Warren Gravestock, the committee includes Mrs. Ann Mayock, Marks, Ed Enos, Bernard Joseph and Sam G. Scott.

The Chest this year will join the East Bay United Fund Appeal, set for the first week in October. The drive will be called the United Crusade. Local goal is $9000.

In accepting the position of campaign manager, Marks declared, "I am sold one hundred per cent on the United Crusade, and I will do my best. This Township is overflowing with civic-minded citizens, ready and willing to give generously of their time and money, and with their assistance each resident will be given the opportunity to lend financial aid through this one great crusade. Citizens of Washington Township will be proud to say the sunny end of the county did its full share."

FRIDAY HOLIDAY

Because of the July 4 holiday next Friday, the Township Register will appear in the mails one day early, on Thursday. Advertising and correspondents' copy must be in a day earlier.

HELP UNSCRAMBLE PRECINCT MESS

Efforts to straighten out the irksome Township precinct jumble were being made by County officials this week.

William Koerner, in charge of registration for County Clerk J. J. Kingston, told the Irvington Chamber of Commerce:

1. He will place a large precinct map in the County Building in Centerville so voters can locate themselves in precincts on the map, then notify his office.

2. He will hand photostat copies of the map to all local volunteer registrars so they can do the same.

Koerner appeared the day previous with Supervisor Chester E. Stanley at the Centerville Chamber luncheon. The visit was in response to complaints that some voters had to travel as much as five miles to ballot on June 3.

Koerner told both audiences much of the trouble arises because voters neglect to put their street locations on their registration cards. They use post-office box numbers for addresses, he said.

This raised the thorny topic of street names and numbers, one which several civic groups have attacked recently. Eugene Manning of Centerville suggested again a Township-wide system of house numbers would help.

"They're numbered now by the different fire departments and the PG&E," Manning complained.

Stanley replied this is a job for the Planning Commission — one however that was undertaken six months ago in Livermore. The supervisor suggested the local body take the issue up with the Township Chamber of Commerce to request the re-naming and re-numbering on an area basis.

Both Centerville and Irvington agreed to do so.

Koerner said the trouble stems back to 1924, when the county accepted streets and roads with whatever names and numbers they had at the time.

PLANNERS HEED WOMEN'S PROTEST

The controversial request to locate a $50,000 trailer court at the mouth of Niles Canyon was rejected Wednesday by the County Planning Commission.

The turndown climaxed weeks of seesawing, with the Niles Women's Club opposing the project, and the Niles Merchants Association and Chamber of Commerce favoring it. The women for five years have campaigned for a public park on the site.

At Wednesday's session in Oakland, the commissioners unanimously denied the petition to establish the court, which was presented by E. C. Thomas, steel mill executive. County laws now require commission approval for trailer courts.

Commissioner Harry Melvin commented that a petition against the court, presented by Mrs. Edna Overacker, contained 76 names. Said Melvin:

"There is ample indication that many local people do not think a trailer court is desirable for the community, and I am inclined to agree.

"It is important that the entrance to the Canyon be developed for recreation." Then Melvin moved to deny Thomas' application and a swift 5-0 vote spelled an end to the court.

Thomas said he will abandon the sheme. He had leased 7.9 acres behind the old Vallejo Flour Mill for the enterprise. The land is owned by the City of San Francisco.

However, Mrs. Overacker told the commission the women's club wants not only the mill as a historic monument, but also wants the 7.9 acres for recreation "for boy and girl scouts." She hinted San Francisco will permit the use of the site for a park. Thomas said in his dealings with S. F. officials they have signified they will not.

W. D. Patterson, president of the Alameda County Water District, appeared to offer the district's services as an intermediary "until some local agency" (unnamed) makes a park out of the site.

Patterson said he thought the district could "advance the necessary funds." But Deputy District Attorney Richard Moore countered he does not believe so, since the district can acquire land only for primary purposes of flood control.

Mrs. Laura Whipple also warned a trailer court near the Niles Canyon Road intersection would present a safety hazard. But Thomas retorted:

"Absurd . . . if it's dangerour for a trailer court, then why not more so for a park where children would have to cross the highway?"

Last week the Niles Merchants voted 47-2 to back the court, saying it would provide needed housing and bring more business to Niles. Also backing the project on Tuesday was the Niles Cham-

DECOTO SCHOOL TAX BALLOT CALLED TO CARE FOR EXPECTED 1400 STUDENTS

Decoto will vote July 23 on a 45-cent tax to help its jam-packed public schools through the coming year.

The Decoto School Board this week announced it is seeking the tax to raise $16,740 to add to an expected $227,504 in State aid.

The tax would be placed atop a current school-tax rate of $1.50. It will cost the average Decoto homeowner a total of about $3.50 and those in Hillview Crest around $6.75, Board Clerk Manuel White estimates.

School Supt. Harold Schoenfeld said population growth left Decoto schools $22,000 in the red last year, when school opened with 635 pupils and closed with 1046.

Schoenfeld estimates he will have 1300 pupils in Decoto and Barnard elementary schools (many on half-day sessions) in September, rising to 1400 before Hillview School is opened in February.

Last Friday the trustees adopted a 1952-53 budget of $300,044, which includes salaries of 14 more teachers and aides, plus one new bus.

Dr. Schoenfeld bases his budget on (1) passage of the proposed 45-cent tax, and (2) an estimated $912,000 rise in assessed valuation since last year. Current assessor's valuation on the district is $3,720,000.

Decoto, one of the state's "poorest" school districts for the number of pupils involved, already has received State allocations of $638,000 for its building program, as well as heavy subsidies for operating expenses.

"If we are to continue getting this kind of State help," Dr. Schoenfeld warned, "Decoto voters must show they are making the maximum local effort to get adequate schools."

NILES AMBULANCE

Establishment of an ambulance station at Niles was suggested here this week.

Bernie Vail, owner of the Township Cab & Ambulance Service, now operating out of Centerville, asked the Niles Chamber of Commerce for its backing in his efforts to rent the old firehouse for a garage.

Vail explained he will base a second ambulance in Niles to be used for accidents on the highway nearby. Presumably it will be subsidized by the county as is the original ambulance in Centerville.

However, several different organizations indicated they feel a prior claim on the old firehouse, which belongs to the local fire district, but is located on land owned by the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Bain Leask said local Civil Defense groups would like it. Others said the Steelworkers Union and the Niles Sportsmen's Club want it.

Chamber President Peter Juhl named Leask, Vernon Ellsworth and Clifford Dennis as a committee to report on the issue.

$3000 TV GIFT IS JUST $3000 SHORT

If all the Olympic Fund donations turn out like the one from Centerville, the Finland-bound athletes will wind up in Brooklyn.

According to Eugene Manning, secretary-manager of the Township Chamber of Commerce, Manning received a phone call from Radio Announcer Ira Blue following last Sunday's $1,000,000 radio-TV fund-raising maraton staged by Bing Crosby and Bob Hope.

"You know a fellow in Centerville named H. J. Hendrickson?" Blue wanted to know. Manning did not.

"Well, he called from this number and gave us that name and an address and said he wanted to donate $3000 in the name of the Township Chamber of Commerce," Blue continued.

A fast checkup by Manning disclosed (1) the phone number was a phony, (2) the address belonged to somebody else, and (3) no one ever had heard of Hendrickson.

Manning returned Blue's call and told him so. Ruefully the announcer concluded:

"Must have been some prankster" (or words to that effect).

MOUGHON FACING 4 MANSLAUGHTERS

Ray L. Moughon, 45, of Niles, driver of the car which killed four San Jose motorists on the highway at Niles June 15, this week was charged with four counts of felony manslaughter.

Moughon is free on $200 bail and will appear Tuesday for arraignment before Judge Manley Clark in Centerville.

If convicted, Moughon faces a possible 40-year prison term.

WOMEN ORGANIZE

"Women for Better Government" is the name adopted for a group of non-partisan township women.

The women, representing Livermore, Pleasanton, and Washington Township, elected Mrs. Harold Korell, Niles, temporary chairman.

Next meeting will be July 16.

MISSION 4-H CLUB FIRST, NILES SECOND FOR BOOTH EXHIBITS AT COUNTY FAIR

Local 4-H Clubs took both first and second place awards in competition with other county 4-H Clubs, in the feature exhibit and booths at the Alameda County Fair.

Mission San Jose 4-H Club took first place, leading Niles, in second place, by only three points.

The Mission San Jose Club's exhibit booth depicted the way in which individual members tie in with the general activities of 4-H club work; while the Niles group showed, in diorama form, the contrast between an old, run-down farm and the modern, up-to-date farm. Both exhibits brought plaudits from Fair spectators.

Patsy Overacker of Mission San Jose took first and second places in the food department. Joanne Reis, of the Mission group, also took a first place in this department, while Marilyn Rodrique, Mission, took a second.

In the sewing department, Nadine Millard, Mission San Jose, Patricia Scott, Niles; Diane Wood, Niles; Madelyne Heinrichs, Niles; and Virginia Zook, Irvington, were all first place winners.

In the 4-H Agricultural Mechanics, Craig Prouty, Niles; Leonard Smith, Niles, and Gary King, Niles, all took first places. Paul Merrill, Bruce and Kirby McMaster and Craig Prouty, all of Niles, took second places; and Gary King, Craig Prouty and Bruce and Kirby McMaster also took third places.

Leonard Smith, Niles, brought home the bacon quite literally for the Niles 4-H Club when he won a pig in the Pig Scramble.

FILM MUSEUM DAD COMING TO NILES

Charles Reisner of Oakland, former movie director, screen writer and sentimental film fan, will appear here next Tuesday to explain his program for memorializing Niles as the cradle of California's "flickers."

Reisner several weeks ago wrote the Niles Chamber of Commerce and said he thought the town ought to erect a museum to let the world know it hosted the old Essanay Studios and gave such stars as Charlie Chaplin and Gloria Swanson their start.

Intrigued, the Chamber invited Reisner to address its luncheon gathering in the International Kitchen. And this week Reisner accepted—for next Tuesday.

NILES TRAILER COURT DENIED PERMIT

Dr. Thomas C. Wilson warned, however, that the court would attract non-taxpaying residents whose children would clog local schools.

Today Lloyd "Curly" Barks, a partner with Thomas in the court, announced he intends to seek State sanction to make a public park of the old Overacker estate near Niles, where Mrs. Overacker lives.

"It'd be an ideal site," Barks contended. "It's off the main highways and it's big enough. I'm going to spend two days in Sacramento next week to see what can be done."

Mrs. Overacker could not be reached immediately for comment.

KLEINE'S EDGES L&V, 2-1, USING W. PINE'S HOMER

By BOB HIRD

The first week of the local softball season ended Monday as Kleine's, top team in last year's league, edged L&V, 2-1.

It was little left fielder Weldon Pine who spelled victory for Kleine's.

Pine slashed out a two-run homer in deep left field in the third frame. His brother, Bally Pine, was resting on first base at the time.

Kleine's held a 2-0 lead until the sixth, when L&V tallied their lone run, George Cortez scoring.

Winning pitcher, Ted Garcia, fanned six and walked none, while losing chucker John Rodrigues whiffed 2 and passed one.

Garcia, a classy pitcher, tossed for the Y.M.I. Club last year.

Only other extra base blow of the contest was a Texas League double by Kleine's shortstop, Gerry Ornellas.

GARCIA HURLS NO-HITTER, BEARCATS WHIPSAW VALLEJO OAKS NINE, 20-2

By TONY ROGERS

John Garcia pitched no-hit ball and his Bearcat team-mates didn't know the meaning of "stop" last Sunday as they swamped a Vallejo Oaks nine by a 20-2 count.

Garcia, the Decoto hurler, wafted curves and fast ones past a bewildered array of Oaks batters and preserved a scoreless record until the ninth inning.

Then an error, a walk and another error allowed two tallies to cross the plate. But they were officially scored unearned.

Garcia struck out 10 and walked two in earning the spectacular victory. Meantime such stalwarts as Stan Roderick, Don Lemos and Hayden Freitas were bombarding three Oaks chuckers for a score of hits to bring the Centerville hardballers their biggest bag of the season. They chased Charles Granozh in the second, routed Don Reardon in the seventh, and then got five runs off Harold Belsher in the eighth.

In the ninth, Freitas fumbled a grounder to let the first man reach the initial sack. Garcia walked the next batter, then booted a bunt, allowing a run to score. The other runner later crossed home plate while Lemos was tossing out a batter at first.

Harvey Hernandez gave Washington High diamond fans a treat in the eighth when he hit his second homer in as many Sundays—this time with one on.

The Bearcats will play the Guadalupe Blues from San Francisco this Sunday at the Washington High diamond, starting at 2:30.

ATTACK CHARGED

Joaquin Castro, Niles pottery company worker, today nursed a swollen jaw and an empty pocketbook after a Saturday night slugfest in which he claimed two 16-year-old Decoto youths robbed him of $38. Castro told officers he was attacked on Second Street as he opened his gate. The deputies arrested a pair of suspects and turned them over to juvenile authorities.

FORGE SOFTBALLS TOP OLWELL, 13-2

American Forge and Olwell Berry Farm started the second week of the 1952 Township Softball League and American Forge emerged victorious, 13-2.

The win gives the Forge nine a temporary league lead with a 2-0 record.

The Berry team started as if determined to upset the pacesetters. They led 1-0 at the end of three frames.

Then in the last of the fourth, American Forge climbed all over chucker Hiro Morimoto.

The Forgemen tallied eight runs on five hits, one a double by Ken Steadman. Three Berry Farm miscues aided the rally.

American Forge added three more in the fifth and two more in the sixth.

FREE TRIP TO DETROIT FOR LOCAL FLYERS

A free trip to Detroit, with all expenses paid, is the bonanza that has fallen to two young members of the Newark Model Busters.

Patsy Scott, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Scott, former Niles family now living in Walnut Creek, and Don Wood, 13 son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Wood of Newark, are the two lucky model plane flyers who won the trips at last week-end's Sixth Annual Northern California Plymouth Dealers Model Plane Meet, held Saturday at Tracy Municipal Airport, and Sunday at Seals Stadium, San Francisco.

The two will now have a chance to compete in the International Plymouth Model Plane contest in Detroit, August 20 to 25, for U.S. Savings Bonds totaling $5,000 plus many valuable trophies.

The competition at Tracy included only free flight events—rubber band powered and gasoline engine powered planes—while the Seals Stadium events featured control line flying.

Patsy, whose expert handling of planes for one so young caused spectators to gasp in amazement, won three first places in the freshman group; rubber-powered free flight, hand launched glider, and Class A, control line speed.

Don won first place in jet class control line speed, and third place in stunt, and free flight class A, in the junior group.

Other local flyers who won trophies—but no trip to Detroit—at the meet were Clifford Andrus, second in hand launched glider and second in stunt, in the freshman group; James Wood, Don's brother, second in A speed and third in stunt; and Lowell Scott, Patsy's brother, third in A speed in the junior group.

POCKETFUL OF $$, BUT BREW CALLS

What's $2,290 if you can't get a cold beer?

So reasoned Harry Short, 59, transient, last Sunday night.

Short was caught short in Niles after bar-closing hours. He had $2,290 in his pocket—$2,000 in postal savings certificates and $290 in cash. But he lacked the beer he craved—or at least so reasoned deputy sheriffs who subsequently charged him with burglarizing Solon Brothers' tavern on First Street.

When they arrested Short at the request of householders who found him wandering in a local yard, the one-legged man was carrying 11 cans of cold beer in a sack. Also he had the money and certificates in his pocket.

Capt. Richard Condon said Short told him he earned the money as a dishwasher in Chicago. The Solons said they were short (1) 11 cans of beer like Short was carrying, and (2) several dollars in change.

Entry to the tavern had been effected by forcing a rear window.

PREPARE, BUILDER WARNS TOWNSHIP

Irvington this week heard a native son announce he will build 200 homes nearby and warn the town, against slumbering while bigger subdivisions come in.

Charles A. Russell, onetime Irvington schoolboy, now a multiple-home subdivider, said he has Planning Commission approval for 200 homes on the former Mary Dutra property, just west of Bryant Street in Mission San Jose.

Russell said he will start construction of GI homes in the $10,000 class as soon as financing is approved in the East.

"I wonder if you realize how close you are to big-scale development?" Russell asked the Chamber of Commerce in Roethlin's Cafe. "Nothing can stop it. Washington Township is the last link in the chain of housing developments now being forged around the Bay."

TV NEWS

By LEO BOHANNON

With some 2,000 new television stations in the process of being installed throughout the country, the Air Line Pilots Association has come up with a statement that "it views with alarm the increasing number of TV towers being erected." The reason is that the "erection of steel antennas anywhere from 1,000 to 2,000 feet high adjacent to airport control zones will seriously affect the safe operation of air transportation" . . . The Association isn't fooling. It has prepared a request that Congress legislate an amendment to the Communications Act which would deny applications of stations whose antenna sites or heights are found to be air hazards. . . .

Thousands of reporters, cameramen, directors and other video personnel are descending upon Chicago where the first major political convention to be seen cross-country through the powerful new force of television for the first time will get underway early next month. Did you know that it's been estimated that one out of every two Americans will see the next president of the United States nominated, thanks to our new entertainment baby? . . .

The names of noted entertainers making their television debuts this fall would fill a book. To cite just a few: Phil Harris, Tallulah Bankhead, Maurice Chevalier and many others. Even Bing Crosby will venture into the new field come the Indian summer. . . .

The cutest return address on an envelope which we know is the one used by Gene Autry. It says: "If no ketchum in ten days return to Gene Autry, Hollywood."

Speed Limit, Please!

An Olive Avenue homeowner, Ernest Vayssie, asked for speed limit signs between Irvington and Mission San Jose this week and:

1. Irvington Chamber of Commerce Vice-President Wallace Pond agreed but commented Irvington itself "can't even get traffic enforcement because we're not incorporated."

2. Builder Charles A. Russell disclosed he and another contractor, Lincoln Homes, each have deeded 10 feet of roadway on the Mission-Irvington Road to the county, which intends to broaden the 66-foot thoroughfare to 100 feet some day.

Pond agreed to take Vayssie's request up with the county engineer. Also in the request will be one for completion date on the Roberts Avenue bridge and resurfacing of Vine Street.

THE WAY OF THE DINOSAUR

The suicide throes of America's two-party system make you sick to watch. That system is the safeguard of democracy, the shield against the dictator's rubber-stamp. Yet with cries that it is preserving the two-party system, Republican leadership prepares the very knife that will cut its own throat.

There exists in this country a very large mass of citizens who are fed up, disgusted, with the foul-smelling stable of cronies and plank-polishers that is in Washington. Yet these same citizens also have the fear that is common to us all—fear of an America alone in a world of brigands.

The voiceless multitude is groping for leadership, seeking someone who can clean up Washington and still preserve our frontiers and those of our allies. What do the GOP party leaders offer them? Senator Robert A. Taft.

GOP party chiefs hand us a laugh when they complain that organized labor is the captive of its leadership. As of today, the Republican convention in Chicago looks more like a straightjacket than anything John L. Lewis ever designed. Republican party bosses want Taft for their nominee. Almost nobody else does. But the hundred dozen county and state central committee chairmen aren't concerned. They want to hang onto the shreds of patronage that still are theirs. And, of course, if anyone else except Taft is nominated, new faces will appear on the county and state committees.

What's wrong with Taft? He's a brilliant politician, no doubt. So was Tom Dewey, who had the convention sewed up too, but who couldn't sell himself to the voters. In the field of foreign affairs, which most concerns these voters, where does Taft stand?

On every issue of foreign assistance, from Lend-Lease to Marshall Plan and NATO, the Senator from Ohio has cast a solid "no" vote. He is a 100-percent opponent of American participation in world security. With the lessons of World Wars I and II behind them, we cannot believe Americans will elect a man with such a record to the Presidency. They would rather take a chance on the incumbent again, or some fellow in a coonskin hat.

Old-line Republicans say Taft's sharply-divergent policies will preserve the two-party system. We think these policies will administer the final blow that kills it. Whigs and Federalists became extinct because they resisted change. So will Republicans.

"Either Caesar or Nothing" was the choice given in ancient Roman days. Republicans who would rather lose with Taft than win with anyone else are following the same line. They should stop and recall what happened to the Romans. And to the dinosaurs, too.

NEWARK'S BANK

News that the Central Valley Bank wants to come to Newark places a bright milestone on that community's path to make itself self-sufficient. Newark, industrial hub of the Township, will take new strides forward if the application is approved.

Still in the road ahead are hurdles to be topped. Federal and State banking authorities must okeh the Central Valley petition. These agencies will be in the area shortly with searching questions about the need for a bank and the amount of support the community will give it.

Many thousands of dollars in pledges of support were obtained during a recent canvass conducted by the Newark Chamber of Commerce. It was a rewarding show of community interest for the committeemen who toiled so hard to make the bank a reality. The government surveyors will call for concrete evidence of those pledges. When that call comes, Newark's residents will be ready for the acid test.

MYSTERY MAN ONCE SAILED TO CHINA

Last week's "mystery" man, if you haven't yet identified him, or found the answer in the paper, was J. A. McDonald, know widely throughout the state as a daffodil hybridizer.

This week's mystery man said modestly, "I haven't done very much. There's nothing much to write about me."

If you can't guess his identity, you will find the answer in this issue of The Register.

His grandfather on his father's side came to the township in 1853, and his grandparents on his mother's side came here even earlier, so it can truly be said that he comes from an old township family.

The house where he lived was built right over the San Andreas fault in 1850. In the earthquake of 1868 the fault opened up, doing some damage to the house.

He didn't go to grammar school in Niles. As a matter of fact, he didn't go to grammar school anywhere, but was tutored by his aunt, the first woman to receive a Ph.D. degree from the University of California.

When his elementary education was completed, he enrolled at the high school in Centerville.

During his college days he did quite a bit of sailing, once sailing as far as Santa Barbara with one of his professors.

He enjoyed sailing so much that, after college, he took a sailing trip across the Pacific to China, member of a crew of 18. The ship was an Alaskan Packers ship, being sold to the Chinese. He considers himself quite fortunate that he returned from that voyage. "The ship was in such condition that if we hadn't had perfect weather all the way, we wouldn't have made it." It took 65 days to make the trip. He returned on a Dollar liner.

With the exception of that one stint of being a sailor, his only occupation has been farming. He is one of the township's prosperous farmers, as was his father, and grandfather.

He met his wife when she, a classmate of his sister's at the University of California, came to visit his family in Niles. They were married in 1933.

He does not enjoy hunting or fishing, but still keeps a sailing boat, and sails it either on one of the gravel pit lakes, or takes it to Silver Lake. "I have become strictly a fresh water sailor," he says.

He can be identified because he usually drives a Cadillac. "It's always a used one," he laughed. "Some day I hope to have a new one."

Thinking Things Over . . :

By VIVIAN BATMAN

SUNSET GLOW

Sunset Magazine opened up its new building in Menlo Park to the newspaper people last Friday afternoon.

"This is fabulous," I said, as I entered the reception room. (I have discovered that to appear intelligent, witty, well-informed, and appreciative these days, you have to know only one word—fabulous.)

"I smell food," I said, to my companion. She was happily engaged in admiring a Navajo. Rug, that is.

A young man standing nearby—I afterwards learned he was a guide—interrupted hastily, "I'm sorry, Madam, but the food comes later. I'm supposed to take the visitors on a tour of the building."

I bore up under the blow, and bravely followed the guide, instead of the aroma. We looked out a tremendous glass wall. Now I could see why everybody has been talking about Sunset's new place. They have moved Golden Gate Park into their back yard.

The guide explained that they had plants growing here from ever section of the west, native shrubs from the Pacific Northwest to the plants of Southern California's semi-desert. "And between these adobe bricks," he continued, as we walked out on the "corredor," "are planted different varieties of herbs."

"Ah, herbs," I breathed ecstatically. "Fabulous. I smell them cooking."

He gave me what is known as a withering look, and walked on into a large room with adobe and redwood walls. "This," he said solemnly, "is Mr. Lane's room."

"Simply fab—" But I stopped, realizing that his tone had been reverent, worshipful.

"Oh, when did he die?" I asked, assuming the same reverent tone.

"He is not dead." He drew himself up haughtily. "He is very much alive, one of our great publishers."

We then walked out to the barbecue. "This is where the West's finest amateur cooks, food editors and contributors to Sunset's 'Chefs-of-the-West' department prepare their outdoor cookery," he explained.

"Simply fabulous!" I chirped. "But there's something missing here. Food."

"We are coming to that," he said, eyeing me as though I might be an ant crawling around on a sandwich.

Eventually we did. It was in the patio. Little knots of people were hovering around barbecued prawns en brazier, and other delectables.

After six prawns, I became thirsty.

A boy in a white coat soon came by with glasses on a tray. "Ah, ginger-ale. Just what I need," I exclaimed, taking a sip of the bubbly liquid.

It was after my second glass of ginger-ale that I really began to appreciate the beauties of Sunset. The patio bricks, I noticed, had the most roseate glow. The floors and trees had an enchanting soft, hazy look about them.

"Only Sunset could contrive such a beauty spot," I enthused, as I helped myself to a third glass of ginger-ale. (It was a warm afternoon, and the prawns were highly seasoned.)

Then I noticed something I hadn't noticed before... The quadrangle walls of the patio had a strange, interesting pattern on them. "Well, what do you know!" I said to a guest. "You might almost think they were elephants. Elephants with a kind of pinkish glow to them. What a most unusual decoration."

He grinned. "Champagne IS a little potent, isn't it?"

"I wouldn't know," I replied, in my most cutting manner. "I have been drinking ginger-ale."

Then I went out ("Went" is not the past tense for any other verb), telling the hostess in the reception room that I would like to meet Charlotte Hinckley, the interior decorator. "She has such fabulous decorating ideas," I said appreciatively, thinking of the quadrangle walls.
